PCI Pal (<http://www.pcipal.com>), the specialist provider of secure payment solutions for global contact centres, has been announced as a finalist in the 2018 Card and Payments Awards (<https://www.cardandpaymentsawards.com/about-section/download/>) for the 'Best Achievement in Retail Payments' category.

The award submission focusses on how PCI Pal has supported retailer AllSaints in delivering a secure payment card solution that complements the customer experience. The judges have shortlisted the entry in the prestigious awards, which recognises excellence and innovation in the UK and Ireland's card and payments industries.

James Barham, Chief Commercial Officer for PCI Pal said: "To be shortlisted for the 2018 Card and Payment Awards for the work we do in supporting retailers is a fantastic achievement. Since implementing our Agent Assist secure payment solution, AllSaints have not only seen a two-third reduction in how long it takes to process phone sales, but additionally they have been able to take their contact centre environment out of scope from full PCI DSS, securing customer payment information across their customer experience teams."

The Card & Payments Awards Gala Evening at the Grosvenor House Hotel, Park Lane, London will take place on 1st February 2018, where over 1200 key players are expected to join together to celebrate the industry's achievements.
