

Intel Firm Sandstone Fully Paid-Up Ahead of Expansion Plans

Submitted by: Sandstone SA Luxembourg

Wednesday, 13 December 2017

Sandstone, the Luxembourg-based strategic intelligence company set up in 2008 by former intelligence and security professionals, is proud to announce the repayment in full of its start-up funding from the Luxembourg government's investment bank, the Société Nationale de Crédit et d'Investissement (SNCI).

"We are immensely grateful for the considerable financial support we received at the outset from the Government of Luxembourg", says Sandstone co-founder and CEO, Frank Schneider. "Without their flexibility and support, we could not have made it. It shows that even service sector companies can benefit from development funding and mature into profitable commercial enterprises."

Schneider outlines ambitious plans for the future. "We have spent nearly ten years building a stable company. Now it's time to look at creating something truly significant: a strategic intelligence provider with global reach."

Schneider has indicated Sandstone's plans for further international expansion with an improved range of services and new offices opening in 2018.

<https://sandstone.lu/>

Sandstone provides strategic intelligence and related services, in particular compliance and integrity investigation, enhanced due diligence, risk advisory assessment, high value commercial intel services, information security advice and litigation support.

Sandstone has an international reputation and a broad and diverse client base.

For more information contact info@sandstone.lu