Periods are natural. &SISTERS (<https://andsisters.co.uk>) believes that feminine care should be too. &SISTERS (<https://andsisters.co.uk>) has just launched a range of 100% natural and ultra-reliable organic cotton products that are better for our bodies and better for our environment. And what's more you can buy any combination you like. Customers customise their period pack online (<https://andsisters.co.uk/build-your-own-customised-pack/>) from a selection of different products and absorbencies and have them delivered to their door (or desk!). &SISTERS is a company with a conscience and is donating 10% of profits to help tackle period poverty around the globe (<https://andsisters.co.uk/making-a-difference-feminine-care-with-a-conscience/>).

Claire Lettice, founder of &SISTERS (<https://andsisters.co.uk>), thinks it's time to change the way we think about feminine care...

A lover of all things natural, she set out to discover why there was no ingredients list on her box of tampons. She asked lots of questions and got some murky answers. She read all the research she could find and commissioned some of her own. She discovered that:

- We're in the dark: 80% of women believe that mainstream products are made from cotton. They're not.*
- Manufacturers are happy for things to stay that way: If they were obliged to list their ingredients we'd find out about the processed synthetic fibres, non-biodegradable superabsorbent polymers and plastic that most products are made with. And the chemical-bleaching too.
- Women want things to change: The current trend is for clean beauty and women are increasingly looking for natural and gentle products, scrutinising the labels on toiletries as intently as those on food.
- Customisation is key: Only 24% just use pads, and only 15% just use tampons. Most women use a combination and want packs with a mix of product types and absorbencies. What's currently for sale lags behind what women want.

&SISTERS (<https://andsisters.co.uk>) gives women a choice of products that are better for their body, better for the planet and better for womankind.

- Better for the body: Natural and ultra-reliable tampons, pads and liners made with 100% certified organic cotton. Free from chlorine, perfumes, viscose, superabsorbent polymers and other nasties. Hypoallergenic and pH neutral so ideal for sensitive skin.
- Better for the planet (<https://andsisters.co.uk/why-organic/>): Sustainable and biodegradable, organic cotton feminine care is kinder on our oceans and water systems. Organic cotton uses 91% less water and 62% less energy than conventional cotton.

- Better for womankind: 'Period poverty'

(<https://andsisters.co.uk/making-a-difference-feminine-care-with-a-conscience/>) is a global issue: UNICEF estimates that at least 1 in 10 girls in Africa and India miss or drop out of school because of their periods. This is significant because for every year a girl stays in school her future income increases by 10%-20%. &SISTERS has pledged to donate 10% of profits to Binti in India and AFRIPads in Africa – charities committed to ensuring no woman is held back by her periods.†

Using a subscription model (<https://andsisters.co.uk/build-your-own-customised-pack/>), &SISTERS enables women to buy feminine care the way that works best for them:

- Pick-and-mix products: Women can customise their packs with the ideal combination of products (tampons with or without biodegradable cardboard applicators, pads and liners) and absorbencies (very light, light, medium and heavy) to suit their period.

- Sit back and relax: &SISTERS eco-friendly letterbox packs are delivered direct to doors (or desks!) as often as every month, every two months or whenever customers ask them to. Products arrive in a stylish, cotton bag.
