The new-for-2019 Morelo Palace motorhome heads to Birmingham's NEC along with more than 700 new-season tourers, motorhomes, campervans, holiday homes and trailer tents displayed at the UK's largest leisure vehicle show from 16 to 21 October.

Built in Germany and arriving in the UK just in time for the event, the £270k Morelo Palace is 9.2 metres long and 2.5 metres across. A panoramic front windscreen with 'intelligent glass' darkens the cab windows for privacy when parked up, while the occupants enjoy two luxury bedrooms with queen-sized beds and a further electronically-controlled fold-out bed in the luxurious living area. Along with a bathroom featuring an oriental shower, a fitted kitchen includes copious integrated storage and every domestic appliance. An integral garage even allows for a car to be parked inside, or the Morelo Palace can tow a further 3.5 tonnes if additional cars, boats or tourers are required.

For those planning to invest in a luxury home on wheels, delivery of a Morelo Palace built to a customer's specification would be a year away in October 2019.

The Morelo Palace motorhome joins other international brands launching their 2019-season leisure vehicles to suit every budget.
