The Little White Cow (<https://www.instagram.com/thelittlewhitecow>) , a Scottish based wedding styling and rentals company, has launched a new range of consciously sourced t-shirts, cards, candles and totes for style-led couples who desire something slightly less mainstream.

Reflecting the likes and loves of the couples they've been working with over the past two years – who are anything but basic – founders, Kate and Jean, have curated a range of gifts and apparel designed to make the sometimes stressful and overwhelming wedding planning stages a little less serious and a bit more joyful.

Everything is designed in Scotland and has the highest sustainable credentials. The tongue-in-cheek t-shirts, reading "Taken", "Lifer" or "'til death", pick up on the creative, playful nature of their couples, with a wearable design that gives a subtle nod to married life, whilst their "Totes Emosh" tote bags are a more explicit but non-twee appreciation of how exciting the wedding journey is. They've also released five watercolour and foiled card designs reading "Feyoncé", "Thank you so much", "Squad Goals", "Love is All You Need" and "'Til Death" for all of the gushy and great loves in one's life.

They also stock carefully chosen taper candles in delicate shades including Blanche, Au Lait, Ink, Blush and Ash. As wedding stylists, it was really hard to find good ones for themselves, so they wanted to share them with their couples and make wedding planning that bit easier.

All of these are available on The Little White Cow's online shop (<https://www.thelittlewhitecow.co.uk/store>)

Images are also available on request.
