St Mellons, Cardiff, United Kingdom: 7th July, 2003; ATL Telecom Ltd, formerly Ascom Telecommunications, a leading supplier of voice and data products to the telecommunications industry, has today announced an extended warranty on its flagship product, the Berkshire telephone. Effective immediately, the warranty will be extended from two to ten years.

David Tomlinson, sales and marketing director at ATL Telecom said, "The Berkshire phone has always been synonymous with quality, and this announcement only underlines our confidence in a product that has stood the test of time. We have been supplying the Berkshire phone since 1986, and it still remains one of our best product ranges."

The Berkshire range was updated earlier this year and consists of the Berkshire 200, an entry level business telephone offering a host of convenient benefits that include modem port, selectable message waiting and headset port and volume adjustment.

The Berkshire 400, which has all the features that the 200 has, but for convenience includes automatic redial for up to 12 permanent memories. The Berkshire 600 which is a speakerphone, and is ideal for conference calling and the Berkshire 800, which is the flagship model and offers many of the features associated with a fully functional system phone, including Call Line Identity (CLI), a directory facility for storage of up to 100 name and number locations, and the added ability of accessing a list of the last 50 callers. Currently the phones are available in light grey, however in October this year, the Berkshire 200, 400 and 600 will also be available in dark grey.

Fact sheets and prices for all the telephones are available on request, please call +44 (0) 2920 500700.
