Noiiz have launched their new subscription platform for music producers, which offers unlimited downloads from a huge collection of royalty free loops, samples and synthesiser presets for a yearly fee of $99.

Users can download packs, playlists or individual files from the Noiiz website, or they can use the world’s first cloud connected plugin to audition sounds in time and in key with their music, then drag and drop right into their project.

New Pricing

Noiiz have drastically reduced their pricing, with an Unlimited Yearly plan now available for $99 per year (download from $199) and a 1GB Monthly plan for $9.99 per month (down from $39.99). Noiiz aim to bring tools previously only affordable for high earning film composers and Billboard chart producers into the hands of all music makers, not just the few and therefore moving closer to a more democratised music creation process.

Unlimited Access to Content Valued Over $10,000

Currently, Noiiz has a library of content worth more than $10,000 if purchased separately, which is constantly growing as more music producers, sound designers and labels like Samplephonics add new content. Users can download all new content as it is added and all content they download is theirs to keep for life, even if they cancel their subscription.

New Presets Section

Noiiz offers a brand new synth presets section, which let's users download presets for software synths like Massive and Sylenth, with more content due to be added soon.

Updated Cloud Connected Plugin

The Noiiz plugin has changed the way music producers can audition and download sounds whilst making music, drastically reducing their workload and enabling them to spend more time being creative. New features include automatic project tempo syncing, enhanced performance and play position skip.

What’s next:
Noiiz have hinted at more new types of content beyond samples and presets, new creators/content developers, new plugins and new industry partnerships. More details to be announced soon.

About Noiiz

Noiiz is the world’s first platform to offer musicians unlimited downloads from an extensive library of royalty free samples through an innovative cloud-connected plugin; adopting a similar 'all you can eat' model, championed by the likes of Netflix and Spotify.

Cloud Connected Music Making

With Noiiz, everything stays in sync. What happens on the website is updated in the plugin and vice versa, marrying the best of cloud-based and native technology to create a hybrid workflow solution that fits perfectly into any musicians workflow and can be accessed from anywhere, at any time. Users can choose to use the website to browse and download packs, playlists or individual sounds, or use the plugin to access all the same features right from their project and audition sounds in time and in key with their music.

Empowering Creators

Noiiz is a new company spun out of Samplephonics Ltd, a UK based sample library developer known for their exceptional quality and diverse range of material. Noiiz offers access to Samplephonics' entire library, plus a number of other developers and producers, known as 'Creators', with more being added to the platform continuously. Like Netflix, Noiiz plans to add more third party Creators as well as introduce a new series of Noiiz Original Content. This platform approach to content generation not only enables a huge, diverse and rapidly growing library of content, but also empowers musicians and producers wanting to earn a living doing what they love - creating sound.
