Hospitality Action, the trade charity that offers a crucial lifeline to people of all ages, working or retired from the hospitality industry is holding its inaugural Charity Polo Day at the Cheshire Polo Club in Little Budworth on Sunday 25th June.

In 2016 Hospitality Action spent close to £80,000 supporting those in need in the North West. This year, which is the charity's 180th birthday, Hospitality Action is on track to spend even more. Find out more about the types of people Hospitality Action helps in this video: <https://goo.gl/Jzs27c>

The Charity Polo Day will raise vital funds for Hospitality Action and has attracted an impressive line-up of chefs who will contribute towards a delicious three-course meal. They include: world renowned Andrew Nutter of Nutters Restaurant; Simon Shaw of El Gato Negro, whose restaurant was listed in the National Restaurant Awards Top 100 and is the only Manchester restaurant to receive a prestigious Michelin Bib Gourmand for 2017; and Sean Sutton, Head Chef at The Alderley Restaurant at the Alderley Edge Hotel, which boasts an impressive 3 AA Rosettes – one of the few places to hold this esteemed accolade in the North West.

Tickets are £85 per person or £800 for a table of ten and include: Laurent-Perrier La Cuvee Champagne and canapé reception sponsored by Rodney Densem Wines Ltd and Cheeky Chilli Events, three-course lunch including half a bottle of wine per person, Polo match and demonstration, and afternoon cream tea. Attendees will also receive an Annual Social Membership Package for 2017 at the Cheshire Polo Club, which includes entry for a car and up to four people to watch polo every weekend throughout the 2017 season, which is worth £50 alone.

Penny Moore, Chief Executive, Hospitality Action said: "We're delighted to have the opportunity to hold a Polo Day in the North West this year, especially at such a stunning venue as Cheshire Polo Club and with the support of three of the region's top chefs. It's set to be a fantastic day, full of great gastronomy and entertainment, all while helping to raise money those in the industry need it most. We hope this will become an annual event to add to our ever growing calendar of fundraising events in the North."

Tickets are expected to sell fast. To find out how you can secure yours contact Astrid Wears-Taylor on 020 3004 5503 or at astrid@hospitalityaction.org.uk. Or to find out more visit www.hospitalityaction.org.uk/events
