Nettec plc, the content managed corporate portal specialists, today announce their plans to help companies maximize their business performance via the launch of a new Application Performance Analysis Testing and Tuning service.

This cost-effective business service, aimed at Java and ColdFusion users, allows companies to predict the investment costs associated with meeting unprecedented variations in user traffic. The business drivers are that it provides companies with a detailed benchmark report to optimise application performance thereby avoiding unnecessary software or hardware expenditure. This service has been launched in response to numerous requests from many of Nettec's existing clients, such as First Choice Holidays plc.

Barry Edwards, Senior Consultant of Nettec Plc commented; "Solving business problems through effective application performance testing and tuning makes good business sense, and in the current economic climate, it's a service that has a significant impact on the bottom line. In the drive to maximize user response rates, more and more clients are asking us to closely monitor their application performance. The first step is to carry out an initial requirement assessment. Then we commence load testing, tuning and bottleneck analysis. We can also analyse the peak number of users and identify how quickly web pages are deployed to the user whilst the overall number of application users increases. In a detailed client report we provide a baseline measurement for the applications future application and scalability. We also identify and resolve problem issues before they even occur and when they are most cost-effective to deal with. The launch of this service further demonstrates Net!
ter's commitment to provide an excellent level of technological service freeing clients to concentrate on their core business. "
